The Sardar was very close to Gandhiji. Gandhi's last interview was with Sardar. After that Sardar left home and Gandhi left for heaven. Indeed, Sardar had hardly reached his residence, when he had to return. Though they were so intimate, Sardar did not shed tears at Gandhi's death. Such was his courage. His maxim was, a true understanding must reveal itself in one's conduct. This was one of his outstanding qualities. In many respects he was compatible with Lokmanya Tilak. He was not a scholar like Tilak but in various qualities particularly in fearlessness, they were alike. So also in plain speaking, irrespective of what others might feel. Both would strike from the front and bear the opponent's blows without showing their backs.

1. When did Sardar have his last meeting with Gandhiji?
2. Why had Sardar to return soon to Gandhi's place?
3. Why couldn't Sardar shed tears on Gandhi's death?
4. Give the noun form of: speaking, close
5. Give a suitable title.
